2. Need of Mentorship (GFMship) :

Engineering students spend minimum 6 hrs.daily in college during his / her 4 years course duration. So it's very much necessary to become their parent in college. Usually there is variety of students from different regions of Maharashtra, different states of India differing in social, cultural and financial background. In today's world, there are always lot attractions to these students and it's a duty of a teacher, mentor to guide these students in proper way.so that they can become efficient engineer in their field of interest.

So in mentorship, every faculty has been allotted 15-20 students to take their care till they pass out from the college. A GFM guides his mentees to solve his / her personal, social, financial problems and also guide him / her to make his career successful in the future. He helps them to nurture their hidden talent and motivate them to do the activities.

This scheme definitely lessens the burden of parents to some extent and assures them a confidence that their wards are on correct path.

A GFM conducts weekly / fortnightly / monthly meeting with his / her mentees after college hours and also meet them in person to solve their problems. A GFM always remain in touch with the parents of mentees through phone calling or through parent-teacher meeting.
